If words alone could tell you
As simple as it seems
I could just say "I love you"
And you'd know exactly what I mean

But words alone can't tell you
So I must intervene
Words alone are well and fine
But words alone cannot define
The feelings in this heart of mine for you
Words alone won't do

I could spend a lonely lifetime
And search the world in vain
But try as I may, I'd never find
A love like yours and mine

Yes, I could spend a lifetime
Just trying to explain
But there are no words that I could write
No tender verse I could recite
So I will try to show you night and day
What words alone can't say

Words alone won't earn the things
That simple acts of kindness bring
So I'll show you in a million other ways
What words alone can't say
